forward to working with everyone on getting this done.

Second Vice President Ryan thanked the Sacramento Food Policy Council, the Healthy Foods Task Force, and other food advocates for coming out and speaking. She spoke of how students in her area often depend upon three meals a day at their local school sites and how a lack of food affects learning.

meals matters to her. They have been out in the community prior to the passage of Measures R and Q to solicit feedback from dozens of PTA groups and throughout the community through meetings in which this emerged as a top priority. She feels what is more important to note is that this does not just benefit our poor students, but all students. The building of a central kitchen has the potential to feed the next generation of students and for generations to come. As we discuss how to move forward with this
